Marine Congressional Fellowship Program

From its founding in 1775, the Marine Corps has maintained a close relationship with the United States Congress. An essential aspect of this relationship is the present-day Congressional Fellowship Program.

The program is a Department of Defense program, managed by the Office of the Secretary of Defense for Legislative Affairs and the Marine Corps Office of Legislative Affairs.

The program provides a unique opportunity for military members to work alongside senators, representatives, and congressional committees. Fellows learn about Congress through practical application and lend their experience to Congress

Currently, SNCO Wounded Warrior Fellows are assigned to either the United States Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs or the United States House Committee on Veteran's Affairs. Each committee oversee agencies, reviews current legislation, and recommends new bills or amendments concerning U.S. military veterans. Jurisdiction includes retiring and disability pensions, life insurance, education (including the G.I. Bill), vocational training, medical care, and home loan guarantees. The committees oversees the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), veterans' hospitals,

Military Service by Representatives, Senators, and U.S. Population

- Source: CQ Press U.S. Census Bureau, Susan B. Carter, Scott Sigmund Gartner, Michael R. Haines, et al., Historical Statistics of the United States.

- At the beginning of the 113th Congress, there were 108 Members (20% of the total membership) who had served or were serving in the military, 10 fewer than at the beginning of the 112th Congress (118 Members) and 12 fewer than in the 111th Congress (120 members). According to lists compiled by CQ Roll Call, the House currently has 87 veterans (including 2 female Members, as well as 2 Delegates); the Senate has 18.26 These Members served in World War II,27 the Korean War, the Vietnam War, the Persian Gulf War, Afghanistan, Iraq, and Kosovo, as well as during times of peace. Many have served in the Reserves and the National Guard. Eight House Members and one Senator are still serving in the Reserves, and six House Members and one Senator are still serving in the National Guard. Both of the female veterans are combat veterans.
- The number of veterans in the 113th Congress reflects the trend of steady decline in recent decades in the number of Members who have served in the military. For example, 64% of the members of the 97th Congress (1981-1982) were veterans; and in the 92nd Congress (1971-1972), 73% of the Members were veterans.

CONGRESSIONAL FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

- The Congressional Fellowship Program offers participants the chance to work for a year as a staffer on Capitol Hill. Eligible candidates include Marine Officers (Active and Reserve components), SNCOs, and Civilian Marines. The fellowship includes three components: (1) training and education through the Georgetown Government Affairs Institute before placement, (2) work on the Hill in the personal office of a Senator or Member of Congress for a year, and (3) a two-year utilization tour immediately upon completion of the fellowship. The program exists to provide the Marine Corps with an enhanced understanding of the legislative branch of the federal government. This is vital, as the day-to-day workings of Congress affect every aspect of the Marine Corps--our budget, roles and missions, force structure, programs, military construction projects, and quality of life.
